

Developing Faculty Competencies in Assessment: A Course to Help Achieve the Goals of Competency-Based Medical Education (CBME)

The ACGME is thrilled to announce the spring 2017 schedule of a highly interactive course designed to enhance faculty skills in competency-based assessment of residents and fellows. Assessment is essential to all of education, and graduate medical education is no exception. With the introduction of competency- or outcomes-based education nearly 15 years ago in the US, and now the implementation of the ACGME's outcomes-driven accreditation model, including the Milestones, the need and urgency for high quality graduate medical education programs to meet the needs of learners, programs, and the public has grown substantially.

The six-day course will be held at the ACGME Headquarters in Chicago, with attendance limited to 48 participants. Sessions begin on Sunday at 1:00 p.m., and continue through Friday at 12:00 p.m. The target audience is residency and fellowship program directors, associate program directors, chairs and members of Clinical Competency Committees (CCCs), and any faculty members with major responsibility for the assessment of residents/fellows.

2017 Spring Course Dates

Sunday, March 26 – Friday, March 31, 2017

Sunday, April 30 – Friday, May 5, 2017

Course Overview

The course begins with a review and exploration of key theories and concepts, and then drills deeper into more specific assessment skills and needs throughout the week. Highlights of the curriculum include:

- Goals and principles of CBME
- Practical and effective application of multiple assessment methods and tools
- Highly experiential with hands-on practice
- How to create effective assessment systems
- How to effectively run your CCC
- How to use Milestones and Entrustable Professional Activities (EPAs) effectively
