American Medical Association (AMA)

The American Medical Association is the premier national organization dedicated to empowering the nation's physicians to continually provide safer, higher quality, and more efficient care to patients and communities. For more than 165 years the AMA has been unwavering in its commitment to using its unique position and knowledge to shape a healthier future for America. In 2013, the AMA launched its Accelerating Change in Medical Education initiative to bridge the gaps that exist between how medical students are trained and how health care is delivered. The AMA has since awarded $12.5 million in grants to 32 of the nation's leading medical schools and formed a dynamic consortium among these schools to share best practices and ideas for developing innovative curricula that can ultimately be implemented in medical schools across the country. The AMA's Accelerating Change in Medical Education initiative has sparked interest across the medical education community—most recently serving as a model for the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education's new Pursuing Excellence in Clinical Learning Environments initiative.
